Every page of the Pupil Book includes activities that build on children's secure phonic knowledge, new vocabulary and comprehension skills. This text is rich in decodable words to ensure children are able to practise their phonic knowledge and become fluent readers and writers.

A Day In The Life Of An Astronaut

This book introduces children to the letter 'ai' and the Phase 5 sound 'ie'. It also includes a focus on the 'igh' grapheme and common exception words.

The story follows an astronaut through their day, from waking up to going to bed. Children will learn about the different tasks that astronauts do, such as training, eating, and sleeping in space. They will also learn about the importance of teamwork and following instructions.

Activities

The book includes a variety of activities to help children practise their phonic knowledge and comprehension skills. These activities include:

- Decodable words: Children can practise reading decodable words to build their fluency.
- New vocabulary: Children can learn new vocabulary words related to space and astronauts.
- Comprehension questions: Children can answer comprehension questions to check their understanding of the story.
- Phonics activities: Children can complete phonics activities to practise their phonic knowledge.
- Writing activities: Children can complete writing activities to practise their writing skills.
