The friends went to the swamp and found a large alligator. They invited the alligator to lunch, and the alligator agreed to come. The friends took the alligator back to their house and prepared a big lunch for him. They gave him all sorts of different foods, including chicken, steak, and fish.

At first, the alligator was very well-behaved. He ate the food that the friends gave him, and he didn't seem to be aggressive at all. However, after a while, the alligator started to get restless. He began to pace around the room and snap his jaws. The friends started to get scared, but they didn't know what to do.

The alligator suddenly lunged at one of the friends. The friend screamed and ran, but the alligator was too fast. The alligator caught the friend and bit him on the leg. The friend fell to the ground, and the alligator started to drag him away.

The other friends rushed to the friend's aid. They grabbed sticks and stones and started to hit the alligator. The alligator let go of the friend and turned to face the other friends. The friends were outnumbered, but they refused to give up. They fought bravely, and in the end, they were able to defeat the alligator.

The friends were relieved to have survived the attack, but they also realized that they had made a mistake. They should never have invited an alligator to lunch. Alligators are wild animals, and they can be very dangerous. The friends learned their lesson the hard way, and they never invited an alligator to lunch again.

Moral of the story

The moral of the story is that it is important to be aware of the dangers of uncontrolled aggression. Alligators are not the only animals that can be dangerous. There are many other animals, including humans, that can be aggressive if they feel threatened. It is important to be able to recognize the signs of aggression and to take steps to avoid being attacked.

If you are ever confronted by an aggressive animal, it is important to stay calm and to try to de-escalate the situation. Do not make any sudden movements or noises that could startle the animal. If the animal does attack, fight back with all your strength. Your goal is to survive, so do whatever it takes to defend yourself.

Never Invite an Alligator to Lunch is a cautionary tale that teaches us about the dangers of uncontrolled aggression. By learning from the mistakes of the friends in the story, we can help to avoid being attacked by aggressive animals in the future.
